

Men As Lovers: An Invitation to My First-Ever Men's Transformational Group

As our world becomes increasingly overtaken by the obsession with what can be computized, planned, executed, and then rewarded financially, all of us, especially men, are drowning in a world of rationality, educated far beyond our relational intelligence, where often false beliefs become truths to argue, fight and even die for. We behave individualistically in our relationships which creates unnecessary separation so that we are literally starving for spiritual depth, love, and the joy of rich intimacy. And our families and communities are starving as well.

It is said that there are 4 fundamental male archetypes: the King, Warrior, Magician, and Lover. Most men have some degree of mastery in the first two. A smaller proportion of men also integrate aspects of the Magician. But It is the Lover archetype in my observation that is the least embodied male archetype in the world today and because of its relative absence the most crucial for men to embrace and integrate.

The Lover asks us, above all: Who are we as men in our relationships and where is love in our lives? As disciples of the Lover we are called to know and grow beyond culturally inherited male entitlements. We want to embody our deep masculinity that is also in profound rapport with women's ways of knowing so that we can support them as bringers of the empowered feminine. We want to let surrender to love supplant the impulse to power that makes us Kings, Warriors, and even Magicians often unconsciously in service to fear and the pursuit of security.

As a conscious man my deepest passion is to become capable of profound love and intimacy. On this path I have had to uncover and release subtle and deeply ingrained patterns of self-involvement that have blocked my ability to love and be loved. I see that this is generally true for everyone and at this time in evolution it is especially crucial for men to go beyond separating states of self-involvement. I know that I have something very important to share with men. This is why for the first time I want to gather with a group of men to explore the fullest potential of ourselves as men and especially as lovers.

In this men's group our consecration will be to embody every aspect of our maleness, but especially to learn what the Lover means to each of us in our individual lives and in the relationships we wish to see grow to their fullest potential, beyond what we may even yet imagine.

If you are ready to dive deeply into every essential part of your maleness, and especially to liberate the Lover within you then I look forward to hearing from you,

In the spirit of Love and wisdom,

Richard

PS. You do not have to be in an intimate relationship to participate in this work.
